

Q

Black Box testing

① Black box testing is the software testing without which is used to test the software of code or program

② This type of testing is carried out by testers

③ Implementation knowledge is not required to carry out Black box testing

④ Programming knowledge is not required to carry out Black Box testing

⑤ Black box testing means functional test or external testing

⑥ The main aim of this testing is to check on what functionality is performed by the system under test

White Box Testing

① This testing is the software testing method in which internal structure is being known to tester who is going to test the software

② Generally, this type of testing is carried out by developers

③ Implementation knowledge is required to carry out white box testing

④ Programming knowledge is required to carry out black box testing

⑤ White box testing means structural test or interior testing

⑥ The main aim of white box testing is check on how system is performing